John R. Simon
Interim Chief Executive Officer
PG&E Corporation
77 Beale Street
P.O. Box 770000
San Francisco, CA 94177

Dear Mr. Simon,

We share the concerns of many Californians, including Governor Newsom, regarding the disturbing reports that PG&E's Board of Directors will be reconstituted with hedge fund financiers. A Board that does not prioritize service to the customers of our State is a move in the wrong direction. San Francisco hopes to see a Board that shares our values around affordability, reliability, safety, equity, access, fair wages, and clean energy.

The continuing focus on profits is one reason the City and County of San Francisco is currently evaluating the cost and feasibility of acquiring PG&E's electric distribution facilities that serve our city. We have an obligation to our citizens to prioritize affordability, reliability and safety, while at the same time addressing climate change by advancing our City's aggressive clean energy goals.

A representative Board and executive management team should consist of individuals that are committed to the greater public good, with demonstrated experience in the California utility sector and a commitment to working with local entities on energy solutions that advance climate and clean energy goals.

Sincerely,

London N. Breed, Mayor

Dennis J. Herrera, City Attorney
